

CARPOOL!

You may join the carpoolworld.com community for free by setting up a personal account at www.carpoolworld.com. You must have a valid e-mail address to register.

How easy is this system to use?

Once you have created your account, you are free to search the site for other people who want to carpool. You may search for those who live close to you, who have similar schedules, or who have similar driving preferences. If you are interested in carpooling with someone, simply send them an e-mail and begin to devise a schedule that is convenient for both of you. You both may decide to designate one day of the week to stop at the grocery store or run an errand. You are certainly not required to carpool everyday of the week either!

When initiating your account, you are only required to enter the name of the city which you live in and zip code if you wish. Though you and other commuters will receive more accurate feedback regarding the mileage and proximity of your locations if you enter the street address of your house, it is up to you to offer that information. Users are not required to list their phone numbers.
